Did you know?

Garden beans come in determinate (bush types) or indeterminate (pole/runner) types

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Garden beans are a good source of fiber, antioxidants, vitamins A, C and K.

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Modern beans have been selected for the highly desirable stringless types that consumers crave.

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Bean leaves are covered with miniature hairs which are used for trapping bugs.

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Garden beans are part of the legume family and are found around the world.

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Garden beans come in many colors: green, yellow, purple or speckled red.

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Wisconsin is the largest U.S. state producer of snap green beans: <> 300,000 tons!

#yearofthegardenbean
Did you know?

Beans are behind several English expressions: spill the beans, skinny as a string bean, etc.

#yearofthegardenbean